Environmental Protection Agency, 2007 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)136952287 Subject: Chemical agents (Munitions) -- Toxicology -- Measurement. Excerpt: . . . Chapter 2 Literature Search Methods 2. 1 Literature Review In the first task of this project, a two-phased approach was used to conduct a literature review to determine what is already known about wipe sampling techniques for a target list of analytes. First, a broad search was conducted that explored what general information was available on wipe sampling (i. e. , how different organizations are using wipe sampling). This search did not focus on the specific compounds of interest for this project, but instead focused on what wipe sampling procedures could be found for various government agencies or other groups. Extensive internet searching was used as the primary tool for this phase of the review process. Various government agency websites were also searched using the available search options on that site using keywords such as wipes (s) or wiping and sample (s) . The following government agency websites were...
